EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT AND STATEMENT OF REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

Examiner's Amendment

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application has been amended as follows:

In claim 1 on line 12 change the word "parst" to "parts".

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-6 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The applicant's invention is geared toward a mobile phone holder structure which comprises: two pressing clipping parts, each pressing clipping part is configured with some clipping claws, the backside of two pressing clipping parts is configured with some rotatably connecting parts and anti-reverse parts in the same direction, and both top side and bottom side of each anti-reverse part are configured with an orientation hole; where in a front cover, is configured with two accommodating grooves, a hole is configured to the position of each accommodating groove which is corresponding to the anti-reverse parts of said two pressing clipping parts, furthermore, the front concave of said front cover is configured with some connecting grooves, a side of said front cover is configured with an accommodating hole, and another side of the back of said front cover which is corresponding to the position of accommodating hole is configured with a fender; a control button which comprises an extended board, said board has two openings, a side of two openings is respectively configured with a hook, and the end of said board is configured with a protruding post connected to a spring; a partition, the position of said partition corresponding to each circinate hole on said front cover is configured with a protruding post for inserting said spring; and a back cover connected to said front cover; two pressing clipping parts are respectively put into two accommodating grooves of said front cover, the control button is put from the accommodating hole of the side of said front cover, two openings of the control button are respectively locked the anti-reverse part of pressing clipping parts, and utilizes the hook to engage with anti-reverse part, the spring on the control button props the fender of said front cover, furthermore, each spring on the partition props two sides in the orientation hole of two pressing clipping parts through each circinate hole on said front cover. The closest prior art is WONG et al (US 2002/0009194 A1). In numerous instances, WONG et al fails to disclose all of the subject matter contained in the applicant's claim 1. For example, WONG et al does not teach that both top side and bottom side of each anti-reverse part are configured with an orientation hole and that the front cover with a hole is configured to the position of each accommodating groove which is corresponding to the anti-reverse parts of said two pressing clipping parts. Moreover, no additional prior art has been discovered that would anticipate or render obvious the claim. Therefore, the applicant's invention of claim 1 when considered in its entirety, comprises a unique combination of subject matter that is neither taught nor suggested by the prior art.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
